Denon App For Mac

I just wanted to start a thread for the remote apps available for Denon Receivers.. With app inconsistencies, a lack of Mac compatibility, and audio performance that fails to rise above the crowd, Denon's Heos multi-room speaker system was at best underwhelming, and at worst.. Four separate screen modes provide access to everything from audio tuning to the networking and switching capabilities of Denon's new receivers.. A HEOS Control app at present does not exist for desktop computers Denon Remote Control App For MacIt amazes me to think just a few years ago we were willing to pay big money for larger touchscreen remotes, and now we can just use tablets, phones and etc that cost less and do more than those remotes did.. For instance, one iPhone App screen lets users control their Denon model's basic functions, including power on/off, volume, input selection, surround sound modes, etc.. With the Denon iPhone App, users can now take control of their home entertainment in an exciting new way.

There is an app for iOS allows you to control your Windows Media Center PC and browse your movie collection, pick a movie on your iPhone / iPad and play it! Apps for iOS Denon's iPhone App is a tremendously beneficial new lifestyle app that lets users control all of the company's Network '11/'12 Series audio/video receivers and Network music system using their iPhone or iPod Touch devices.. The wireless range and sound quality is far superior to Bluetooth and any device on your network running the free HEOS app can control every speaker.. This allows for easy and yet advanced selection of input sources, network content, zone control and more.. I searched and didn't see one, so figured why not make one Post should contain what receiver you are using, what app you have tried and or are using, thoughts, problems, tricks etc.. I plan on using mine in conjunction with my HTPC which runs the MyMovies application in windows media center.
